March is a wonderful month in so many ways. We often think of spring and perhaps seeing our first robin. (Well, I saw mine on February 25th when there was lots of snow on the ground and the temperature was -13C!) We "spring" ahead into Daylight Savings Time on March 12th (don't forget to remind your choir members ahead of time).

For musicians, Bach was born on March 21st so it gives you another reason to play some of his music (and/or perhaps one Schumann's fugues based on BACH). We are so fortunate to have the Great Bach Marathon falling on the heels of his birthday, occurring on Saturday, March 25th.

For church musicians, the season of Lent takes up most if not all of the month of March. Coming up with the right voluntary or anthem that captures the penitential mood isn't always easy. There is an abundance of anthems or voluntaries for two of the appointed psalms (23 and 130) in Lent this year. Several fine choral examples of Psalm 23 include settings by John Rutter, Howard Goodall and Franz Schubert. Many musical settings of Psalm 130 (Out of the Depths, I Cry Unto Thee / Aus tiefer Not schrei ich zu dir) are based on Martin Luther's metrical setting of this psalm. Two of Bach's settings are included in his organ mass, Clavier-Übung III. Mendelssohn's 3rd organ sonata is also based on this chorale. In his responsorial psalm setting, our own Gordon Johnston uses the first phrase of Luther's hymn for his psalm refrain.

Some church musicians will get to observe and plan music for the Feast of the Annunciation of the Lord (March 25th). Think Prière à Notre-Dame from Léon Boëllmann's Suite gothique or Healey Willan's motet I Beheld Her or the many settings of Ave Maria.

Looking ahead to April, something we haven't yet promoted is International Organ Day. Held each year on the Saturday after Easter, it is an opportunity to celebrate and promote the organ, organ music and organists. This year that date is Saturday, April 22nd. I am inviting members of our Centre to contact me about opening the doors of their church, and be available to play for an hour (repertoire and/or hymns) for people (your congregation and the general public) to attend. Let them try out the organ too! Perhaps in the April issue of Pipelines we could publish a schedule. As the title doesn't specify, the organ can be electronic or pipe. I look forward to hearing from you. (613-220-3420 | robertpjones12345@gmail.com)

The next Pro Organo Ottawa recital will be Sarah Svendsen on April 21st at 7:30 p.m. at Notre-Dame Cathedral- Basilica on Sussex at St. Patrick. Concert organist Sarah Svendsen maintains a busy international career as a soloist and musical collaborator. Dr. Svendsen is known for her imaginative and engaging performances, including her Comedy Duo, "Organized Crime". As an active member of the Canadian organ community, she is Curriculum Design and Program Coordinator for the Summer Academy of the RCCO. Dr. Svendsen was born and raised in rural Nova Scotia and is now based in Toronto.

One of the pieces on the program for April 21 is Neil Weisensel's Tableaux for Organ (2022), commissioned by Sarah

Svendsen for debut on the Roy Thompson Hall organ as part of the inaugural Future Stops Organ Festival (September, 2022). Canadian composer Neil Weisensel is a Winnipeg-based composer, conductor and music producer. Well-versed in a multiplicity of styles and genres, he has written music for feature films, documentaries and multi-media. His eight operas have seen 146 performances across Canada and the U.S. Weisensel's big band collaborations with superstar Michael Bublé earned him a Genie nomination.

Sarah Svendsen has done many presentations on position at the keyboard and disseminating information about organist and musician health and safety. She will do one of these presentations at Notre-Dame on Saturday morning, April 22nd, at 10 a.m. (Free for members, $10 for non-members. The additional Master Class has been cancelled due to low enrolment.)

Thomas Annand Concert Review

Donald Russell

I was one of over 60 people to spend a wintery evening at Basilique-cathédrale Notre-Dame in downtown Ottawa listening to Thomas Annand perform some of the works of César Franck. In the pre-recital video, Tom presented a wealth of information in a short time about the performance of Franck and choices that can be made to more accurately reflect the tonal character of Franck's organ at Ste. Clotilde. The concert that followed clearly demonstrated that his skill in performing this repertoire matched his in-depth knowledge of the subject.

Most organists who have worked on these pieces will agree, I believe, that they are not for the faint of heart. Musical and technical challenges abound. Tom Annand's performance gave those present an experience of what symphonic French organ repertoire can be. In the first half of the program we heard the Trois Pièces written in 1878 (Fantaisie en la, Cantabile, and the Pièce héroïque.) These pieces demonstrated the wide variety of beautiful and well-blended tone colours that a skilled organist can create on the organ at Notre-Dame. In addition, I was struck by the thoughtful articulation and control of rhythm demonstrated throughout the performances, with great use of rubato. Pièce héroïque, probably the best known of the four works on the program, was a particular treat and performed very expressively.

After a brief intermission we heard the Grande Pièce Symphonique, Op. 17 (1862). While this piece is not new to me, this particular performance made it very obvious why this genre of organ work is described as symphonic. The interweaving and contrasting tone colours that we heard gave the very real impression of the variety of sounds that can be generated by various combinations of musicians in a full orchestra. At times, it was easy to imagine Tom Annand, baton in hand, conducting the various ranks of the organ. One final aspect of these performances that struck me was the masterful use of the acoustic in the church. His variations in tempo and dynamics seemed to match seamlessly with the reverberation in the room. The silences created by the rests in various places in these compositions were very striking and seemed just the right length.

All-in-all it was a wonderful evening that was enjoyed by all of us who braved the Ottawa winter to make our way to this event. Tom Annand showed himself, not for the first time, to be both a skilled organist and a scholar.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Rev. Christine Piper

Following God Step By Tiny Step

On February 19, 2023, those churches that follow the revised Common Lectionary will have celebrated the closing of the Season of Epiphany. Indeed, we heard Matthew's Gospel proclaiming the Transfiguration of Jesus which took place on the top of that 'high mountain (Mt 17: 1).' Indeed, as the singer of that beloved hymn expresses: *Tis good, Lord, to be here! Thy glory fills the night: thy face and garments, like the sun, shine with unborrowed light.

And so, on Ash Wednesday, February 22, 2023, persons of faith in many denominations will have entered the season of Lent as we attended church in a spirit of penitence, marked by the sign of ashes that at that service, we were invited to receive. I quote from the Anglican prayer book: 'We begin our journey to Easter with the sign of ashes, an ancient sign, speaking of the frailty and uncertainty of human life, and marking the penitence of the community as a whole (Book of Alternative Services, page 282).'

On February 26, 2023, the first Sunday of Lent, we were invited to reflect on what it can mean to be tempted by Satan. As Jesus is so hungry after fasting for 40 days, the tempter suggests to him that all can indeed be well! For surely, if he is the Son of God, he can command the stones that are around him to become bread! He can indeed eat! And we see Jesus, in response to this temptation to misuse God's care for him, find within himself those words from Deuteronomy (8:3): 'One does not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God.' A second and a third time this scenario between the tempter and Jesus, now so weakened by hunger, plays itself out. And we see Jesus lean in on the words of Deuteronomy a second and a third time: 'Do not put the Lord your God to the test (Deut. 6: 16).' And 'Away with you Satan! For it is written, Worship the Lord your God, and serve only him

(Deut. 6:13).'

And I ask myself, how can this text speak to us as followers of Christ today? We can indeed become so absorbed by reflecting on Christ's temptations that we can forget that at the beginning of Jesus' ministry it was not Satan, but indeed the Holy Spirit who led him into the wilderness where he would be exposed to the temptations of the devil. Leading us, surely to ask, as we find ourselves in our own periods of wilderness, how the Holy Spirit would have us learn from these; indeed, how are we called to act in response. What schooling from God might we be receiving from the situation of temptation in which we find ourselves? Indeed, what would the Holy Spirit have us discover? For we too can surely learn as we see Jesus being schooled in not setting himself forward as so great a fellow, but instead being led in simple acts of what it can mean to follow God, yes, step by tiny step.

Step by tiny step. Thanks be to God.

*Hymn 167 in the Anglican Common Praise.
Text: Joseph Armitage Robinson,
Music Charles Lockhart.

Timothy Piper Recital

On the afternoon of Saturday, February 4th at St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church's The Guard's Chapel, Timothy Piper, Musical Director of St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church, presented a mini-recital to demonstrate the Létourneau Pipe Organ installed in 2013. The new organ contains some reused pipework from the previous 1894 Warren instrument, which was in the Chapel on the grounds of the Governor General's residence, Rideau Hall, before being moved to St. Bartholomew's in 1914.

The varied programme included works by Buxtehude, Clérambault, Vaughan Williams and Purcell. The recital concluded with all singing the hymn Lord of All Hopefulness

A big Thank You to Tim Piper, our host, for a wonderful recital and to Suzanne Marjerrison for the light refreshments afterwards.

Mike O'Sullivan, for many years the organist at Holy Cross Church, will be moving soon and is looking to give away his organ to a student, organist or a church. It is a Rogers Scarborough 750B organ, two full manuals & full, 32 note pedal board, two 40 watt amplifiers, and a bank of speakers. The organ is in good working order. It would be a good practice instrument or an organ for a church.

Mike is giving the organ free of charge, except for the cost of moving it. For further info, Mike can be reached at: marilyn@hotmial.com
